

Elsa Law

Founder & Sole Proprietor

Overview

Ms. Law was qualified as a lawyer in the UK in 1988 and has been working in the legal field for near 30 years. She set up her practice in 2005. She had worked in London in the UK. She returned to Hong Kong later and was admitted as a lawyer. Since then she has been working both in private practice and in-house. She was admitted as a lawyer in the Capital Territories of Australia. She was the first in-house legal counsel for the Kowloon-Canton Railway Corporation in 1999 and also as in-house counsel-litigation for Ryoden (Holdings) Limited which changed its name to Mitsubishi Electric (Hong Kong) Limited in 2004) to overseas and handled numerous injuries and death claims that arose out of the catastrophe fire of the Garley Building, which took place in 1996.

Because of her experience and background as in-house counsel, thus Ms. Law knows the importance of finding suitable solutions, in the interest of clients, within the framework of the laws when it comes to dealing with a question or proceedings, in order to assist clients to resolve issues and reduce stress.
